Contents Summary	The course refers to the typical educational activities and belongs to the scientific area of Economics. The course is designed to give a general overview of scientific knowledge in tourism as part of the economy and destination development. In addition, it allows to develop specific competences, including the ability to study the impact of regional governance on destination development. At the end of the course, students are expected to understand the key drivers behind tourism and destination development and to draft a strategy (with tools such as an appropriate SWOT analysis) to increase the attractiveness of a destination or of a region to stimulate the regional tourism economy.

Course Topics	The course starts with basic microeconomics, markets, market structure, game-theoretic prerequisites and strategic pricing, product differentiation and quality. A next topic is network economics and network demand, as well as multi-sided platforms and their impact on tourism. These topics will be covered together with case studies, with an eye on platform strategies and the regulation of platforms. Effects of e-commerce are being covered, monopolistic pricing, dynamic pricing, dual pricing and price discrimination. Tourism and sustainability will be covered with an eye on the regional context, including case studies.
Keywords	Competition, networks, platform strategies, sustainability.
Recommended Prerequisites	Knowledge of microeconomics and basic knowledge of industrial economics
Propaedeutic Courses
Teaching Format	Frontal lectures, joint exercises, case studies and elaboration of course projects

	ILO 4 - Communication skills ILO 4.1 Graduates of the Bachelor's programme in Tourism, Sports and Event Management will develop communication and presentation skills in order to explain, discuss and summarise the complex, interdisciplinary topics of the tourism, sports and event sector in a work environment. ILO 4.2 At the end of their studies, the final thesis offers students an excellent opportunity to incorporate their acquired specialist knowledge and communication skills into a document that represents the completion of their Bachelor's degree. ILO 4.3 The achievement of this objective is assessed by means of written examinations, group work, assignments, presentations of case studies and projects, and the final thesis. ILO 5 - Learning skills ILO 5.1 The ability to find up-to-date information in order to keep pace with changes in the service sector in general and in the field of tourism, sports and event management in particular. ILO 5.2 The ability to retrieve and utilise information from databases, research studies, legal texts, regulations and standards that are required in their professional life. ILO 5.3 the ability to analyse, critically evaluate and integrate data, information and experience; ILO 5.4 the ability to develop possible solutions to problems in economic and operational areas relating to those work contexts that represent potential career prospects for graduates.
Specific Educational Objectives and Learning Outcomes (additional info.)	Additional objectives aim at an understanding of new developments in tourism, in a world that goes beyond traditional textbook topics. This includes the view of how networks, platforms and e-commerce nowadays affect tourism strategies (e.g. booking portals, Airbnb and e-commerce). Such topics are to be discussed together with imminent questions on sustainability, to reach a new understanding of current challenges in the field of tourism.
Assessment	Same exam for attending and non-attending students: Final exam (75%), (ILO 1 and 2) Course project (25%), (ILO 3, 4, 5)
Evaluation Criteria	The final exam consists of a combination of questions covering the entire course. It's a combination of knowledge-related questions and questions on how to apply this knowledge to specific problems discussed during the course. The final exam counts for 75% of the grade. A course project that will be presented and delivered in written, counts for the remaining 25% of the grade. Students will sign up for a topic by end of April. Evaluation criteria hold both for attending and non-attending students.
