Unterrichtsform	The course will include lectures, an online seminar and a practical laboratory.

Anwesenheitspflicht	In accordance with the regulation
Spezifische Bildungsziele und erwartete Lernergebnisse	Knowledge and understanding - describe the development of the major educational theories and education systems from antiquity to the present day; - explain the foundations of comparative education and the main approaches to comparing education systems; - describe the historical development of school systems at the national, regional, and provincial levels, situating them within the broader European context; - identify the main international frameworks and European policies on inclusive education, as well as the key features of selected European education systems and their respective models of inclusion. Applying knowledge and understanding - use historical and comparative educational concepts to interpret contemporary educational phenomena; - analyse legislative documents, educational policies, and historical sources related to school systems; - establish connections between educational models, historical contexts, and educational practices; - critically compare different inclusive policies and practices from a European perspective. Judgement - recognise the influence of historical, cultural, and political contexts on the development of education systems; - formulate well-reasoned evaluations of the evolution of educational and school policies; - critically discuss the strengths and limitations of different educational models and education systems. Communication and learning strategies - use the terminology of educational sciences, the history of education and comparative education appropriately; - present and justify analyses of educational phenomena and school policies by drawing on historical, scientific and legislative sources;

	- independently identify, analyse, and use bibliographical, documentary and legislative sources in the fields of the history of education and comparative education.
Spezifisches Bildungsziel und erwartete Lernergebnisse (zusätzliche Informationen)
Art der Prüfung	Assessment consists of a written examination and an evaluation of the portfolio compiled during the laboratory. The written examination comprises eight questions, distributed in proportion to the credit weighting of the modules: five questions relating to the module on the History of Pedagogy and Comparative Pedagogy, one question relating to the seminar on the History and Evolution of the School System in South Tyrol, and two questions relating to the module on Policies and Practices of Inclusion in the European Context. For the laboratory, students will compile a portfolio containing the materials produced during the workshop activities, accompanied by a reflective essay.
Bewertungskriterien	For the written examination, the questions relating to each module will be assessed separately and each module will be marked out of 30. The portfolio produced as part of the laboratory will also be marked out of 30. The final mark for the course will be determined by the weighted average of the marks achieved in the various components of the examination, according to their respective weighting in terms of credits. To pass the examination, students must achieve a mark of at least 18/30 in each module. Should the final mark be insufficient, the positive marks (18/30 or above) achieved in the individual modules will remain valid and will be recognised in subsequent examination sessions.

Inhaltsangabe	The laboratory aims to develop the future teachers' competences in analysing and reconstructing the relationships between general history, the history of pedagogy and education, and educational models and practices for early childhood, with particular focus on current educational models in Europe and Italy.
Themen der Lehrveranstaltung	The historical origins of the concept of childhood; lines of continuity and development across pedagogical theories and models; the legacy of the great masters and mistresses for contemporary teaching practice (new tools, environments and languages), with a particular focus on nursery schools.
Unterrichtsform	The methodological approach will be workshop-based, organised around cooperative learning methods and centred on groups engaged in historical analysis and reconstruction with a view to bringing history to life. Using primary and secondary sources – both iconographic and textual – students will, through individual and group discussion, produce historical research outputs that demonstrate their ability to apply the skills they have acquired to a practical task. The use of digital tools and environments is envisaged to enhance opportunities for interaction and knowledge-sharing between groups, thereby enabling students to gain practical experience of new perspectives on digital competence within pedagogical and didactic research.
