Spezifische Bildungsziele und erwartete Lernergebnisse

Disciplinary skills

Knowledge and understanding

At the end of the module, the student has adequate knowledge of learning theories and practices for teaching the writing and reading of Italian, also in the context of interaction with other languages. Furthermore, he/she has adequate knowledge of the phonology, orthography and punctuation of Italian, as well as good contrastive knowledge of the same systems for Ladin and German.

Ability to apply knowledge and understanding At the end of the course, the student is able to reflect on the typical and atypical development of the writing and reading skills of mono- and multilingual children in Italian; he/she is able to evaluate the resources available for the teaching of writing and reading in Italian; he/she is able to design and produce autonomously paths and materials for the education and promotion of writing and reading in Italian, as well as for grammatical reflection.

Transversal skills

Autonomy of judgement

At the end of the module, the student has achieved critical and interpretative skills that enable him/her to make observations and formulate autonomous judgements on the learning of writing and reading in Italian, also with reference to contexts of interaction with other languages.

Communicative skills

At the end of the module, the student has acquired specific communicative skills, in particular the formal accuracy of exposition and selection of terms, argumentative skills and the ability to synthesise in written and spoken Italian. The insistence on the comparison between the phonological, orthographic and interpunctive systems of Italian, Ladin and German stimulates greater control of the linguistic resources available, also for teaching in a multilingual context. The workshop activities, in plenum and in small groups, contribute to developing specific communicative skills such as argumentative ability, formal accuracy and the ability to synthesise.

	Learning skills At the end of the module, students have acquired knowledge and specific reflective skills that enable them to update and deepen their study of the processes of acquiring and teaching writing and reading in Italian autonomously, as well as to update critically on new teaching proposals. Furthermore, the teaching methodologies tested during the workshops develop the ability to reflect and apply teaching methods that can be used in the future profession of pre-school and primary school teachers.
