Ressumè di contegnus	The Course "Current Trends and Issues in Tourism Management" (31013) teaches concepts and techniques for analysing economic and non-economic factors to address current trends, problems, and challenges in tourism. The following topics are covered: - Regenerative and transformative tourism frameworks - Artificial intelligence using neural networks in tourism - Image building for destinations - Network science in tourism - Climate change and mobility behaviour in tourism

Argomenc dl curs	The course deals with theoretical concepts as well as scientific frameworks and methods for analysing, evaluating and managing current tourism trends. The following list of topics is indicative. Further relevant topics can be added (until the start of the course). Frameworks of regenerative and transformative tourism; Lifestyle entrepreneurship; Network analytical frameworks in tourism; Artificial Intelligence in tourism exemplified with Artificial Neural Networks; Destination image & segmentation; Asymmetric effects of guest satisfaction; Tourism benchmarking; the Ethics of tourism sustainability; Climate change and tourism. The frameworks, methods and theories discussed are critically reflected upon and their limitations are highlighted. Notably, the course also addresses practical tourism perspectives through the elaboration of case studies with the industry. By so doing, mobility trends, demographic trends and labour market trends (shortages, grievances and justice issues) as well as the usage of artificial intelligence methods in tourism will be covered.

Obietifs formatifs y competenzes da arjonje	INTENDED LEARNING OUTCOMES (ILO) ILO 1: KNOWLEDGE AND UNDERSTANDING ILO 1.1 The student acquires specific competences and skills to deal with management issues from the perspective of the management of tourism enterprises, the development and promotion of tourism destinations as well as the planning and management of integrated tourism systems and individual services in strategic, organisational and administrative terms with an international and intercultural perspective. ILO 1.2 The student acquires the ability to identify and analyse the environmental and social problems induced by tourism and to understand their interdependencies and contexts by applying theories and methods and developing explanatory approaches. ILO 2: ABILITY TO APPLY KNOWLEDGE AND UNDERSTANDING ILO 2.1 The student acquires the ability to understand and analyse the problems characteristic of the tourism sector by applying theories and models and using suitable instruments for the management of tourism enterprises. ILO 2.2 The student acquires the ability to apply models to analyse the tourism market. ILO 2.3 The student acquires mastery of the management of human resources and the ability to prioritise corporate culture. ILO 2.4 The contextual, multidisciplinary approach enables students to consider operational, sectoral, economic and social requirements and environmental problems in decision-making processes in a holistic manner. ILO 2.5 Areas of knowledge application encompass both micro, meso and macro levels, and include the acquisition of skills that are in demand in both policy advice and strategy development in companies. ILO 2.6 In addition, there are skills that have their foundation in behavioural economics, decision theory and consumer behaviour research, skills that are particularly important in empirical analysis as well as in ex-ante forecasts and scenarios in the context of future-oriented issues. ILO 2.7 The skills developed can be applied in regional, national and international contexts. ILO 2.8 The development and promotion of competences also includes the ability to present complex, socially relevant issues and results in a precise and coherent manner, but in an understandable way and in a target group-oriented way. ILO 3: AUTONOMY OF JUDGEMENT ILO 3.1 Acquire the ability to compare empirical models and findings in the study of tourism companies, associations, consortia and destinations. ILO 4: COMMUNICOATION SKILLS ILO 4.1 The graduate of the Master's programme will be able to communicate effectively, orally and in writing, the specific contents of the individual areas and to assess the effects of his/her communication by using different specialist languages, depending on the recipient and the communicative and didactic intentions involved. Written and oral skills are developed in particular in those educational activities that serve to prepare the Master's thesis, in the discussion of business cases and in the interactive lectures, which include group discussions and a comparison of individual analyses. ILO 5: LEARNING ABILITY ILO 5.1 Identify thematic links and establish relationships between different cases and contexts of analysis. ILO 5.2 Systematically present a new problem and generate appropriate taxonomies. ILO 5.3 Develop general models based on the phenomena analysed.

Obietifs formatifs y competenzes da arjonje (informazions suplementares)	The aim of the course is to provide students with concepts, models and techniques to analyse economic and non-economic factors necessary to identify, understand and evaluate current trends and issues affecting the tourism sector.
