Sintesi contenuti	The course introduces students to the theory and practice of photography as a creative medium. Teaching adopts a conceptual and experimental approach with a focus on different contexts of publication and use.
Argomenti	Course held by Mr Schwarz (WS): In this course, we approach the dell'insegnamento	medium from a visual storytelling perspective, thus addressing two of the key questions of photographic practice: What do I want to tell and what are the most suitable means to do so? Over the duration of the course, students will each develop an individual photographic project related to an overarching theme. The umbrella theme for the winter semester 26/27 is "Identity," which can be understood in a wide variety of contexts: political, social, personal, poetic, philosophical, etc. Potential presentation formats (wall display, book, screen) should be conceptually considered from the very beginning and developed accordingly. In a short presentation (approx. 10 min), students will also choose to engage with either a specific photographer's work of their own choice or a picture-research on a self-selected journalistic or media topic. In accompanying lectures, a selection of relevant historical and contemporary positions — with a focus on documentary photography — will be presented and analyzed. Usage contexts and dissemination channels will be overviewed, and media-specific discourses and topics will be critically examined in group discussions. Course held by Mr Fengel (SS): We will explore what photography can do and where its limits lie. Through a range of student-produced examples, we will examine how photography operates today and its relationship with society, comparing it with its role fifty years ago. Do we need to photograph an idea that has already been conceived, or can photography help us discover a new one? What responsibilities do we have? Why is it sometimes important to be funny—and sometimes not? The course will offer as many possible answers as it can.

Parole chiave	Course held by Mr Schwarz (WS): Photography as activism, photography as a commodity (the image market), interpretation & contextualization, realism vs. constructivism (truth, fact & fiction), politics of representation, ethics of seeing, digital image cultures, visual literacy, awards & festivals. Course held by Mr Fengel (SS): How do I look in a picture? Why do other people see the same thing in a different way? What is an opinion and do I have to have one? How looks that in a photograph. How

Prerequisiti	Course held by Mr Schwarz (WS): No prerequisites are foreseen. However, Initial practical assignments may be completed using smartphone cameras, subject to prior agreement. However, for the project work on the semester's theme, participants should use a DSLR or DSLM camera system with interchangeable lenses (a variety of options are available at and can be borrowed from the faculty's photography workshop.). Students should be familiar with the basic technical features. For image selections and work-in-progress feedback presentations, Adobe Lightroom Classic-version (NOT the mobile/cloud-version!) should be available as the course standard, and participants should have a basic understanding of the software. Course held by Mr Fengel (SS): basic knowledge on using a camera.
Insegnamenti propedeutici	None
Modalità di insegnamento	Course held by Mr Schwarz (WS): Lectures, assignments, tutorials, student presentations, group discussions, project work. Fengel (SS): Course held by Mr Workshops, exercises, analysis, talks.

Modalità di esame	By the exam date, each student must upload full documentation of the work completed during the course to the faculty's microsite: https://designart.unibz.it/ . Course held by Mr Schwarz (WS): Assignments, student presentations, written project summary (approx. 2,000 characters), photographic project (in the chosen presentation format). The documentation is part of the exam. Multiple work-in-progress presentations during tutorial sessions in front of the class as well as in one-on-one meetings are recommended. Oral exam: Presentation and discussion of the project results. Course held by Mr Fengel (SS): By the exam's date, each student must upload on the Microsite of the faculty detailed documentation of the work done during the course. Documentation is an integral part of the exam. The documentation must include visual documentation and an abstract of the project. The portfolio to be loaded up will contain all the topics taught in the course. It will be discussed in an oral exam.
