Inhaltsangabe	The course engages with the main theories and discourses in the study of International Relations: Realism, Liberalism and Constructivism will be explained by illustrating the debates and2/3 discussions that animate the discipline. Globalization is the backdrop where international actors engage in a system of relations ranging from cooperation to conflict. The course will illustrate a number of dyads, like East-West and North-South, that structure IRs, and will expand on such issues as national security, international and transnational institutions and global governance

Themen der Lehrveranstaltung	The historical (and pre-historical) background; theories of world politics; structures and processes; international issues, globalization, and current challenges. The course begins by commenting on excerpts from Yuval Harari's book Sapiens: A Brief History of Humankind expanding on the origins of "early human institutions" and follows the development of IRs up to the emergence of sophisticated forms of political accountability in the international politics of the XXI c. One block of lectures engages with the main theories and discourses in the study of IRs. Globalization is the backdrop where international actors engage in a spectrum of relations ranging from cooperation to conflict. The course will expand on such issues as national security, national self-determination, international and transnational institutions and NGOs, and global governance.
Stichwörter	THEORIES: Realism – power politics, anarchy, state interests. Liberalism – cooperation, institutions, interdependence. Social constructivism – norms, identity, social construction of world politics. CONCEPTS: Sovereignty – the state as the main actor in international relations. Power – both hard (military, economic) and soft (norms, ideas). Globalization – interconnectedness, transnational challenges, erosion of state-centric models.

Art der Prüfung	1. Participation. Depending on how many students will be attending, format and participation will be discussed and agreed upon in week one. Attendance is not compulsory but in-class discussion of case studies by registered students will be appreciated [ILO4; ILO5]. 2. Midterm: A mid-term is scheduled at the beginning of May (maximum 2 extra points). Only students who attend regularly (e.g., 80% of classes) can enroll in the mid-term [ILO1; ILO2; ILO3; ILO5]. 3. 70-minute final exam: this is an in-class written exam combining multiple choice + short essay (max 350 words); further details about the structure of the exam and the composition of the grade will be given in a separate doc, made available in the 'file' folder of the course's Teams within week 5 [ILO1; ILO2; ILO3; ILO5]. Note: non-attending students will be invited to meet with the instructor during office hours in order to learn how to cultivate the communication and learning skills (ILO4 & ILO5) that are normally acquired through consistent participation in the course.
Bewertungskriterien	See 'assessment' (instructor will circulate by week 3 of the course an extended, 4-page syllabus detailing the evaluation criteria)
