Sintesi contenuti	This course offers students the opportunity to acquire skills and experience for interdisciplinary work with children of pre-school and primary school age as part of a musical-aesthetic project. The course qualifies students in teaching methods aimed at improving children's motivation levels, expression of emotional and social skills, creativity, integration, teamwork and communication skills. At the end of the course, students present the results of their artistic-musical project work, the development, implementation and reflection of which contribute to the development of pedagogical-didactic, organisational and creative skills, including the performative perspective.
Argomenti dell'insegnamento	- Artistic creativity through music, theatre, dramaturgy, and scenic movement - Basic vocal skills (singing and speaking) - Instrumental skills (Orff instruments, body percussion) - Movement and music in connection with fundamental musical structures (e.g., choreographies, movement games) - Techniques of scenic writing, creative writing, and musical dramaturgy - Techniques of linguistic, scenic, and music-aesthetic expression - Use of visual arts skills to promote and support children’s musical and artistic expressiveness - Application of interdisciplinary pedagogical-didactic approaches between the arts and other school subjects - Fundamentals of methodology in music, performing, and visual arts, with particular focus on strategies for inclusion and participation - Use of didactic technologies with special focus on the artistic-aesthetic field - Development of suitable evaluation tools
Parole chiave	Music Education, Performing Arts, Creativity, Inclusive Strategies, Multilingualism
Prerequisiti	Students apply the skills they have acquired during their studies in practice, particularly in the following areas: music education, singing, instrumental performance, visual arts, art education, creative writing, physical education and multilingualism.
