Contents Summary	The module provides basic knowledge in a) the developmental psychology of early childhood, i.e. up to around the age of 7, and

	b) educational psychology and the psychology of learning. Learning processes and motivational processes that come into play during teaching and learning are also addressed. The development of talent, the design of learning environments and the diagnosis of learning status with special consideration of inclusive processes and settings are also addressed. All thematic focuses and perspectives of the lectures are explored in greater depth in a corresponding laboratory to the lectures, which focus on the observation of children's behaviour on the one hand and on educational psychology and learning psychology in connection with inclusion on the other. The overall module aims to impart basic pedagogical knowledge as well as to develop specific professional competences.

Assessment	Written examination
Evaluation Criteria	The overall assessment is based on an examination covering all four courses: Written examination with open questions on the content of the two lectures and the two laboratories. Criteria for the assessment are: Factual accuracy, scientific relevance, reference to specialized literature, logical structure, ability of critical analysis and reflection, use of scientific terminology, clarity of expression. The handwriting must be legible so that the examination can be corrected and graded. In order to be able to take the examination, immanent work must be completed in the laboratories and positively assessed in advance. All immanent work must be completed by the last date of the respective laboratory at the latest. In the event of absence from the presentation date (e.g. for health reasons), the outstanding immanent performance must be completed in the form of a compensatory performance (to the extent of a seminar paper). Criteria for a positive assessment of the immanent performance are Information competence, factual accuracy, own argumentation and reflection skills, theory-practice transfer performance. Formal correctness (e.g. language, observance of the APA citation rules or the formal requirements for examination performance

	announced by the lecturers) is a prerequisite for a positive partial performance. The use of artificial intelligence is not permitted. According to the examination regulations, taking the examination three times without passing will result in a suspension for three examination dates. (see also Article 6, Paragraph 4 of the current examination regulations).

Teaching Hours	0
Lab Hours	20 Gruppe 1, 2, 3 und 4: Dr.phil. Gertraud Girard Battisti
Individual Study Hours	30
Planned Office Hours	6
Contents Summary	The ability to observe and analyse children's behaviour is one of the basic skills of professional pedagogical work, also with regard to the design and organisation of inclusive settings. The laboratory introduces the theory and practice of observation. It addresses processes and factors that influence the observation process. The advantages and disadvantages of different observation methods and quality characteristics such as quality criteria of observation instruments are also discussed. Students will be introduced to the testing and practical application of various observation methods used in educational institutions in the region as well as the principles of documenting observation data and the theory-based interpretation of such data.
Course Topics	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Socio-psychological aspects of perception and observation (biological, biographical, role-specific aspects);</li> <li>- Observation errors;</li> <li>- Ethical principles of observation;</li> <li>- Forms of observation;</li> <li>- Learning stories;</li> <li>- Structured observation forms.</li> </ul>
Teaching Format	Practical exercises based on theoretical input; analyses of observation sequences in small groups; analysis of observation and documentation procedures; case observation, evaluation and interpretation.
Required Readings	See mandatory literature of the two lessons

Contents Summary	The lecture offers an introduction to educational psychology and the psychology of learning in early childhood, taking inclusion into account. The course will focus in particular on early childhood forms of learning, taking into account development-dependent cognitive resources.
Course Topics	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Introduction to educational psychology and the psychology of learning in early childhood;</li> <li>- Methodology and theoretical foundations of psychological cognition and observation;</li> <li>- The structuring of thinking</li> <li>- Thinking processes</li> <li>- Forms of learning in early childhood</li> <li>- Psychology of play</li> </ul> Special attention is also paid to the role of higher cognitive abilities, such as logical reasoning in toddlers and preschool children. However, abnormalities and disorders in the experience and behaviour of toddlers and preschool children as well as teachers, particularly in the context of kindergarten, are also addressed, as well as how they can be dealt with and which risk and protective factors are known. Preventative measures such as forms of communication and a mature approach to conflicts are also addressed in the course.

Teaching Format	Lecture with media support, in-depth short group work, literature study. Preparation is expected.
