Contents Summary	The course provides students with a comprehensive understanding of the purposes and applications of market research. It focuses on designing the research process, from defining the problem and setting research objectives to analyzing and interpreting data. Students get to know both quantitative and qualitative research methods to explore and model consumer needs, preferences, and behavior. This enables a well-grounded understanding of how market insights support decision-making in marketing and beyond.
Course Topics	The course covers a wide range of relevant topics related to market research:
